Royalty's Great Concession.

The Wiener Tagblatt, an influential Austrian journal, has found an extraordinary reason for praising the demeanor of the Czar. He actually allowed Madame Faure and Madame Brissot, who are not even "hoffang," to dine at the same table with himself and the Czarina. Such a concession to Republican principles would, the journalist continues, be absolutely impossible in Vienna, where, though a low-born man might be admitted to the Emperor's table, his wife never could be. The fact is correct, and was once the occasion of a curious scene at the Hofburg when the Emperor had to exert his personal authority to obtain partners for his Premier's daughters; but our contemporary surely mistakes the feeling of the Czar. In his mind, as in that of every true autocrat, there is no rank except that derived from his favor. His notice, in fact, as Nicholas I. once openly said, of itself confers rank. The well born in Russia have social advantages, as everywhere else, but Peter the Great's ablest Minister was a cook or sutler, and the tradition has never been forgotten. In Russia, as in every Oriental country without exception, all careers are as open as in the United States.—London Spectator.

"Put Me Off at Buffalo"

The title of this wellknown song as well as the song itself emanated from the brain of an employe of the Buffalo Brewing Company. That enterprising firm, believing that a man who could compose so catchily an air must have a large and well balanced brain, straightway raised his salary. This has proven to be a good move on their part as is testified by the excellent qualities of their beer, which is dispensed over the bars of the Cosmopolitan, Pacific and Royal saloons at the rate of two glasses for 25c.; half and half is also served at the same price. It is always fresh and cold and life-sustaining. Or you can get one glass of Buffalo and one of Pabst beer, the fine product of the Milwaukee brewery. Exchangeable checks good at all the above-mentioned resorts are given in change if you only want one drink. "Best beer ever in Honolulu," is the verdict of many of our prominent citizens.

The young man who is anxious to lay the world at the feet of the girl he adores, three months after he marries her isn't willing even to lay the carpet.

"Jibway's wife seems to have him pretty well under control." "Yes; the only time Jibway is not under the influence of his wife is when he is under the influence of liquor."

Smith—"I see that a bullet from one of these new rifles will kill six men, standing one behind another." Thompson—"You don't say? In that case, a man might just as well go to the front."

Father—"Wait a year, my son, and you may feel very different." Son (confidently)—"I've tested my love for Miss Higgins thoroughly, and I know it cannot change. I've played golf with her, and I still want her for my wife."
